The most significant influx of population, however, came with the abolition of slavery in the 19th century. Indian indentured laborers were brought to work on the sugar cane plantations, forming the largest ethnic group on the island today. Their descendants have maintained their rich cultural traditions, contributing to the island's vibrant Hindu festivals, its unique Bhojpuri dialect, and its delectable cuisine. Alongside the Indo-Mauritian community, significant populations of Creole, Sino-Mauritian, and Franco-Mauritian heritage contribute to the island's distinct cultural identity.

This cultural confluence is most evident in the island's religious diversity. Rougaille, a rich tomato-based stew, often featuring seafood or meat, is another popular dish. Chinese influences can be seen in noodle dishes like mine frite and chow mein, while French patisseries and bread offer a touch of European elegance.

Seafood is abundant and expertly prepared, from grilled fish to flavorful prawn dishes.
